During 1902 the cash receipts from all sources were $3,330.69. Of this $2,240.85 came from the East market. The South Side market was a failure in paying its way, the lpts from all sources being only $604.45. The fire force appropriation for the year was $216,126.55, and of this only $201,573.68 was expended, thus turning a balance of 114,552.57 into the treasury. The police force ppropriation was $166,701.50, and the expenditures $164,800.72, showing a saving of $1,900.78. The total appropriations for all purposes were $394,357.75, and the balance reverting to the treasury was $16,352.71.

Representative Tarkington Leading the Fight Against the Bill-Legislative News.

House bill No. 310, creating a school supply commission, according to present indications will be the bone of contention in the lower branch of the Legislature during the coming week, and despite the fact that it has been made a caucus measure by the Republicans it may precipitate as lively a fight as has been known during the session. Several of the members on the majority side of the House, chief among whom are Morgan and Tarkington, of the Marion county delegation, have manifested an inclination to bolt the caucus action, and if they head a revolt they may be able to defeat the bill provided they can secure the united co-operation of the Democrats. The Democrats have not caucused on the measure, but it may be reasonably expected that they will take a position antagonistic to that of the majority. They have thirtythree votes, and if the bolters can rally seventeen Republicans a combination can be effected to prevent the passage of the outgrowth of the fight made against it by Charles W. Moores, of the Indianapolis School Board. Mr. Moores in published statements has attacked the bill and has ridiculed the statements of its friends that it will be the means of saving a large amount of money, ranging from $500,000 to $1,000,000 annually, to the taxpayers of Indiana. Mr. Moores supported his contention with figures which he claimed showed that less than $200,000 a year is expended in the State for supplies of the nature that the proposed commission would contract for.

MR. JONES'S FIGURES. In marked contrast to the figures of Mr. Moores are those furnished by State Superintendent Jones, who receives and compiles the figures from every township and county in the State. Mr. Jones says that the records in his office show that for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1902, the sum of $2,230,-948.32 was expended in the State for school supplies. Of this amount Mr. Jones estimates that $50,000 was expended for the transportation of pupils, and a sum for fuel that would leave the net amount expended for supplies of the character contemplated by the Stansbury bill between $1,750,000 and

The friends of the bill claim that its enactment will result in a saving to the State of from 30 to 50 per cent. of the total amount now expended for such supplies, but they point out that if it will only be the means of saving 10 or even 5 per cent. of that large sum it is a good measure, or that if it only saves $10,000 a year it is a bill that should receive the support of every member of the Legislature.

Representative Stansbury, who stands sponsor for the bill, said last night that he did not believe that any of the Republican members of the House would go against the caucus action after they had studied the matter and had informed themselves of its transfer and had informed themselves of just what the bill contemplates.

"One or two of the Marion county members," he said, "have been disturbed by the figures and arguments advanced by Mr. Moores, of the School Board of this city, but I am satisfied that when they take State Superintendent Jones's figures they will realize that there is a great deal of merit in the bill, and will lend it their sup-port. Mr. Jones indorses the bill, and he is in a position to know more about what it will do than any other one man in Indiana. He is in touch with the whole State on the question of school supplies, and he realizes that the average prices paid for the supplies are a great deal higher than they

"I have received a large number of let-ters in regard to the bill. Most of them are from township trustees. A few of them indorse the bill; several oppose it." The bill is backed, it is understood, by the Republican leaders of both houses and they will make a strong effort to keep the Republican representatives in line with the caucus action and to secure its indorsement by the majority caucus in the Senate. The bill is now on third reading in the House, and it may be handed down on its final passage Monday or Tuesday of

Two women were injured last night in collision between a freight train and street It is provided that the State shall not be | car No. 191, on the Columbia-avenue line, at Thirteenth street and the L. Miss Rowe was injured about the knees and back. Neither is sernot to alter existing laws relative to text- lously hurt.

> The accident was peculiar in that it was due mainly to the excitement of the passengers in a crowded street car. The Columbia-avenue car was running east, and got in the middle of four tracks when the rear end of a freight train was seen at the north sidewalk. Passengers on the street car were packed on the rear platform, and many stood in the aisles. As the car proceeded across the tracks the trolley slipped from the wire and the car was wrapped in darkness. The lights held by the rear brakemen on the freight train were then seen and great excitement ensued. A young man in the car yelled for every one to jump. Women and girls screamed, young men and boys elbowed their way over one another, while others crashed the windows and jumped out.

The two women injured were seated near the end of the car. When they realized that the car might be demolished at any moment they ran to the rear platform. Miss Rowe fell off the rear platform of the street car, but rolled under the iron trucks. She placed her knees against the iron rod in an effort to keep herself from coming in contact with the wheels. She was rolled over several times in the deep mud, and only suffered slight injuries to her knees and back. When the car reached the opposite side of the tracks it was immediately stopped and an investigation made. Miss Davis was picked up from her perlious position and taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Isaacs, at 1215 Cornell avenue. She was cared for there by Mrs. Isaacs, who is her she was not seriously hurt. Miss Rowe was placed aboard the street car and taken to the corner of Columbia avenue and Thirteenth street, where she was placed in the city ambulance and taken to her home. The crew of the freight train deny that they were near the street car when it was on the tracks. They said they were fully three car lengths from the crossing when the crowd of passengers began scrambling for places of safety. They said the trolley came off twice and this caused greater excitement among the passengers. The rear switchman said he saw the car and waved his lantern for the engine to slow down. He said the train could not have struck the street car had the latter remained in the

They devoted their attentions to the crowd of newspaper reporters standing in the middle of the street, of whom they asked many questions. The only answer they got was to look out for the passenger train that was running about twenty miles an hour. Immediately more excitement prevailed. The cars had to be reversed to save them from being struck.

Knocked Down by a Car. Miss Josie Branham, living at 2308 Brookside avenue, was slightly injured last night at 6:30 o'clock by a Brightwood car at Ludlow and Hillside avenues. The Gas Question. With the failure of natural gas here, the prob-lem has presented itself to the residents of how to heat their houses without the necessity of returning to the use of coal. Several heating com-panies have been organized here to fill this want, out with what satisfaction those that have tried can best answer. Just at the present time the Backus Co., of Brandon, Vt., have placed on exhibition a number of their portable steam radiators at No. 137 East Washington street (Arcade.) These radiators are placed in rooms and are connected with artificial gas, the cost of heating being very little more than with natural/gas, on account of the improved and economical use of artificial gas. The combustion being perfect the radiator can be put under a mantel in place of the grate by first closing up the chimney, or they can be placed in any part of the room, as they are quite ornamental and cheerful.
